The number of delegates attending conferences in Rwanda has increased in the past 10 years - an 83% increase has been registered since the RCB inception in 2014. RCB represents the best interests of Rwanda’s MICE industry stakeholders and offers impartial advice, guidance and support to international meeting and event planners through every stage of planning. RCB plays a key strategic role in supporting Government goals for MICE tourism, increasing the country’s market share and thus helping drive economic development agendas forward. In 2017 Rwanda hosted 169 conferences.

The total 2017 MICE economic contribution was estimated as USD 41.8 million. Calculations are based on the direct contribution to the GDP through accommodation, meals (not included in accommodation bill), transport within Kigali, shopping, entertainment and others.

From the 12 surveys conducted in 2017 the average daily spend per delegate was established as USD 300 with 4.6 measured as the average length of stay. Only the direct economic contribution is considered for 2017; for 2018 RCB intends to reflect a holistic multiplier effect indicating not only the direct, but also the indirect and induced contribution of the MICE sector to the GDP.

Over 180 international conferences are confirmed to take place in Rwanda this year with USD 74M expected to be generated from MICE activities in 2018.

Notable events hosted this year include:

- Next Einstein Forum - 1,5k delegates
- Transform Africa Summit - 1,5k delegates
- Extra Ordinary Africa Union Conference - 3k delegates
- Africa Green Revolution Forum - 3k delegates
- Youth Connekt Africa - 1,5k delegates
Ease of Access

In the past two years Kigali International Airport was ranked among the top 10 best airports in Africa based on client feedback surveys, and the 2nd best according to International Aviation Organization standards. This has played a key role in growing access to Rwanda with an annual average traffic of about 1.5 million passengers.

Rwanda visitor Arrivals

Construction of Bugesera International Airport (commenced in 2017 at an estimated US$800 million) is aimed at further enhancing Rwanda’s aviation capacity, with the potential to increase the number of carriers and daily flights, and increasing arrivals capacity to 4.5 million passengers annually.

A Rwandan visa can be obtained on arrival for $30. East African nationals and Democratic Republic of Congo nationals do not require visa to Rwanda. Nationals of Singapore, Hong Kong, Mauritius, and Philippines are exempted from entry visas for a stay of up to 90 days.

East Africa single tourist visa grants access to Rwanda, Uganda and Kenya for 90 days at a cost of 100$.

Kigali is easy to move around, most major attractions, conference venues and hotels are within 15 minutes’ drive from the city center. The easiest means of transport are taxicabs, easily identified by the horizontal yellow stripe on the side of the vehicle and the most adventurous mean of transport around Kigali are motorbikes.

Rwanda’s iconic tourism attractions are in close proximity to the capital city. Excellent internet service and telecommunication keeps you connected through the country and Rwanda being both English and French speaking country is yet another ingredient that makes it very easier for all visitors.

International main airlines connected Rwanda to Europe, Asia, America and Africa being KLM, SN Brussels, Qatar Airways, Turkish Airlines, Ethiopia Airlines, Kenya Airways and RwandAir.

Hotel sector

Rwanda hotel industry has for a while been limited to independent local hotel and one or two hotels with a regional brand in Kigali, mainly owned by the private sector. Today, and according to the Rwanda Development Board, the Rwanda hotel supply reaches approximately 486 tourism related accommodation establishment of which about 50% are concentrated in Kigali.

The remaining bigger percentage is concentrated in the secondary cities of Rubavu, Huye, Musanze, Karongi and Rwamagana. Rwanda currently has 10,776 accommodation rooms and 57% of these are found in the capital city.

The construction of high-end lodges providing luxury food and services to travelers is Rwanda’s achievement. The recently opened lodges in Rwanda include Bisate Lodge’s Wilderness Safari, one of the eco-tourism companies is an addition to their collection, the recently opened One & Only, Nyungwe House located in the south-western part of Rwanda nestled in the Nyungwe rainforest and the Mantis Akagera Lodge signify the transformation of Rwanda as an investment destination for high-end tourism products and services. The above compliments the investment of other operators such as Rezidor Hotel Group’s Radisson Blu, a five star that launched a Kigali complex in 2016, and a 292-room luxury hotel together with Kigali Convention Center.

Other international hotel brands chose Rwanda as their home include Kigali Marriott Hotel with 254 rooms with a capacity to accommodate over 650 guests, Park Inn by Radisson, City Blue Hotel new property, Epic Hotel in the Eastern Province near Akagera National Park, Swiss International Hotels & Resorts, Marasa, Onomo Hotels as well as Serena Group of Hotels.

From a local front, local and regional investors are also adding their contributions to this vision of building a destination anchored in sustainable and eco-tourism and hospitality practices. Luxury lodges such an Amokoro lodge and Ruzizi Tented Camp in Akagera National Park come into play.

All these international hotel brands are establishing in Rwanda with the aim of grabbing a portion of the regional conferencing pie as the country progressively defined itself, making MICE the base of business tourism. These are contributing to the growth in the number of visitors and conference delegates to Rwanda. The luxury and upper upscale segments clearly put Rwanda in its own league.

ADR (inclusive of taxes) are estimated as follows:
- Upscale: 160$ – 250$
- Upper Midscale: 100$ – 150$
- Midscale: 50$ – 90$
Challenges
In as much as the sector has made tremendous progress, the sector still face some challenges such as;

- Low standards of quality and services
- Rwanda is considered an expensive destination
- Insufficient human capacity - Rwanda needs to more trained hospitality professionals
- Limited international air connectivity - the new airport and continued expansion of the national airline is expected to reduce this gap
- Inadequate tourism products especially in and around the capital city

Projects
- Bugesera International Airport, poised to be one of the first green-certified airports in Africa is under construction approximately 40km from Kigali and will accommodate 4.5 million passengers annually. The new airport also presents great opportunities for investors as the new area will require accommodation facilities, housing, entertainment and shopping.
- Construction of Sheraton Hotel Kigali, began in April 2017 – as part of a $200m Century Park and Hotel Residences project. The 136-room Sheraton Kigali will feature signature Sheraton experiences.
- In the pipeline is Singita, a high-end lodge set to be opened in 2019, near Volcanoes National Park, home of the endangered mountain gorillas.

Prospects
- Cultural Tourism Infrastructure Project: Kigali Cultural Village (KCV) will showcase tourism products to both local and international tourists. The facility will have a conference hall with cinema, theatre, galleries, commercial and business centres.
- Vacation Village: The vacation park is a lucrative concept that targets families, singles and groups that enjoy an event-filled and out-door lifestyle.
- Hotels, Eco-Lodges & Resorts: potential earmarked sites at Twin Lakes in the north and Kivu Belt in the west, provide an opportunity for investment to develop hotels and lodges, golf courses and hot-spring eco-resorts.
- Lake Kivu Sport: The project comprises marinas to be constructed in Rubavu, Karongi and Rusizi. Jetty stations and mini ports in Rutsiro and Nyamasheke will be developed along the lake shores. Regular boat services between these hubs will not only trigger tourism between these centres and along the lake, they will also facilitate domestic tourism and business.
